Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 210 pages. Certain that she wants to spend the rest of her life in Bangkok, Janet Brown moves to Thailand, only to find bombs and civil unrest in the Land of Smiles. She sets off to find her new home in Asia, looking in Hong, Kong, Beijing, and Penang with mixed results. In Almost Home, Janet Brown writes with the affability of a wise local whos delighted to stroll with you through her Asian city streets and wryly point out all the things you wouldnt have noticed if youd gone on your own. Thats what travel writing is all about. Colin Cotterill, author of The Coroners Lunch, Grandad Theres a Head on the Beach, and *The Woman Who Wouldnt Die*Janets talent as a traveler is to immerse herself without reservation or motive in the experience, and her talent as a writer is to convey that experience without a filter. Not for her wieldy paragraphs expounding on the social significance of this or her own emotions regarding that. Instead, you open the page and you are, simply, wonderfully, there. Kim Fay, author of *Map of Lost Memories*Janet Browns poignant travelogue is less a testament to the wunderlust many of us experience at some point in our lives, if were lucky, than it is the gnawing itinerancy many of us experience in our very souls. Certainly, Ms. Brown revels in the exoticism of her varying Far Eastern homes, and yet, whereas some people who feel that they belong to one place but live in another find themselves content in neither, Ms. Brown ultimately accommodates a peace within herself from which we can all learn. It is this simple yet elusive beauty, the everyday, universal marvels, that she so eloquently expresses and makes Almost Home so worthwhile. -Peter...
